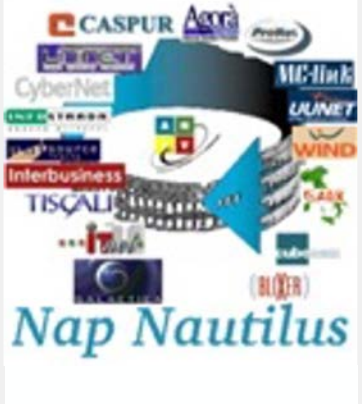
The Internet Exchange Point of Rome & Mediterranean

Almost 30 Years History

In began in 1995 whitin the neutral Datacenter of a University Consortium in Rome



On a Voluntary base until 2001

NaMeX (Nautilus Mediterranean Exchange Point), established in 2001 as a non-profit consortium of ISPs.

The new logo in 2017 was designed to highlight the city where we operate.

EXA is executing a targeted growth strategy to invest capital in new infrastructure in Southeast Europe

Several projects have been approved and are currently in implementation phase:

- New transport route between Crotone in Italy and Preveza in Greece, with extensions to Athens and Thessaloniki.
- Trans Adriatic Express. TAE is a seamless fiber backbone between the Greek/Turkish border and Marseille, connecting the major data centers of Southeast Europe. Thessaloniki and Athens are amongst the cities that will be connected to TAE.
- New transport route between Belgrade and Milan with new PoP in Zagreb.
